Design: Marconato & Zappa

Description

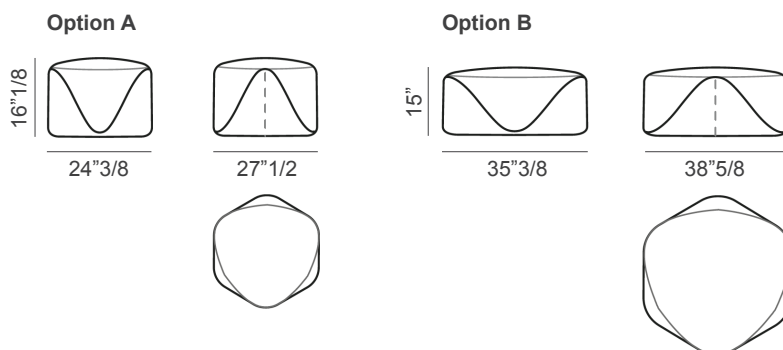

Ottoman reminiscent of stones polished by the wind and rain. Its seemingly irregular structure due to the absence of edges and right angles, takes on different shapes depending on the angle from which they are observed.

It features a wood and polyurethane structure and the seat is padded in shaped polyurethane foam, cover in velveteen bonded onto polyester fiber. The cover, divided in half by a curved line, makes it possible to play with different materials: the lower part, in contact with the floor, recalls the shoreline, while the upper part reproduces the shape and facets of the stone. This ottoman is available in two sizes and can be upholstered in fabric or leather; it is also possible to choose the bi-cover version. Made in Italy.
