

Sasso

Design: Bosco Fair

Description

The asymmetry of the oval-section metal structure is the main feature of the base, on which heavy slabs of marble or lacquered wood rest, seemingly without obeying gravity, with edges gently rounded like stones washed by a river, from which the table takes its name. To obtain this particular curve, the Sasso table is made of marble that is thicker than usual.

Both the marble and wooden tops are finished in polyester lacquer to guarantee the maximum protection against spills and abrasions, and are supported by a bevelled support in Casa Casati matte orange lacquer (Casa Casati's signature color). Thanks to the difference in heights, this coffee table is perfect for being arranged in large dynamic groups with the Sasso coffee table. Made in Italy.
