

Diapason

Design: Studio Diapason

Description

The glass table Diapason and the modern console of the same name preserve the historical tradition and of the Cattelan Italia style. First designed in 1986, they are among the longest-surviving designs on offer and are still enjoying great international success today. They are the expression of a refined design that relies on high quality materials and Italian craftsmanship.

The base of this modern table and the design console is made of marble and it is possible to fully appreciate its beauty thanks to the transparent glass top. Made in Italy.
