

Avant-Garde

Design: Fabrice Berrux

Description

Simple lines and a meticulously studied alternation of full and empty spaces in a real challenge to the idea of balance: this is the starting point of the Avant-Garde lounge chair designed by Fabrice Berrux.

The backrest and seat are two separate pieces made up of single curved lines which are connected to each other by a metal tube. The space between the elements not only lightens the visual perception, but creates an effect of suspension in a subtle interplay of balances.

The separation between the seat and backrest is not only an exercise in technical mastery and aesthetic research, but a functional element that gives the frame a delicate flexibility. The two parts adapt naturally to the shape of the body, ensuring optimal comfort and a balanced seating experience. Made in Italy.
