

Canopy

Design: Francesco Rota

Description

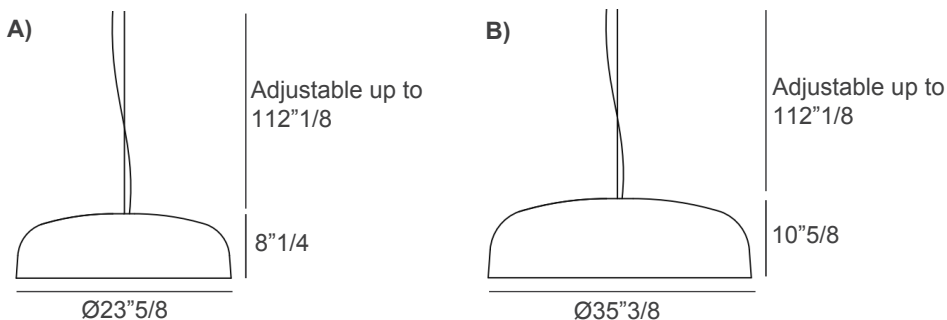

Canopy owes both its shape and its name to the ceiling rose – traditionally one of the simplest and most overlooked components of lighting, used merely to conceal ceiling wires. Designer Francesco Rota reinterprets this element by enlarging, elevating, and transforming it into the focal point of the project: a striking, large-scale metal lampshade offered in refined color combinations. Inside the dome rests a distinctive circline bulb, designed to diffuse a soft, sinuous light throughout the environment. The result is a luxury lighting fixture that combines functional ingenuity with elegant aesthetics, turning a humble technical element into a contemporary designer light of architectural presence. With its balance of refined design and luminous performance, Canopy is a true statement piece within the world of luxury home lighting. Made in Italy.
