

Koji

Design: Giuseppe Viganò

Description

The Koji sectional sofa expresses a perfect balance between luxury design, comfort, and craftsmanship, conceived to adapt seamlessly to modern living spaces. Its soft yet architectural forms define a system of modular elements that can be freely combined to create tailored compositions suited to any contemporary interior.

Distinguished by elegant solid Canaletta walnut or ash decorative details, Koji highlights Porada's renowned Italian craftsmanship, where every detail reflects precision and aesthetic refinement. The one-piece shell structure, made from multilayer and solid poplar and fir wood, integrates elastic straps positioned parallel to the seat to ensure consistent support, flexibility, and durability over time.

The high-performance padding, composed of polyurethane foam with differentiated densities. Wrapped in thermobonded polyester fibre with a white hypoallergenic cotton lining, it ensures breathability and long-term resilience. Optional goose-down back cushions (Oro label, Assopiuma certified) further enhance the seating experience with natural softness and warmth. The adjustable recessed feet create a subtle floating effect, accentuating the lightness of the design. The Koji sectional represents a masterpiece of contemporary Italian furniture, combining sophisticated design, modular versatility, and the timeless beauty of artisanal tradition. Made in Italy.
