Design: Altherr Desile Park

Description

The idea of departure is to the geometric texture, created by the juxtaposition of various tones of uncontaminated and unbleached wools, colored field brightened by natural but refined tints: helichrysum, cadmium red, rosewood, jade and water. The rug, pure expression of contemporary living, was conceived to give an accent of vitality to wood, cement, clay and stone floors. Incidentally, the design is also contemporary, generated by the Panja weave, which enters the dialog in the context of narrating its own story: with a simple appearance, it requires, in fact, great manual ability in the creation, starting from the meticulous use of colors to the correct execution of the weave.
