Design: R&D Dallagnese

Description

The Track side table is defined by a distinctive and original design concept, where the metal frame runs continuously along the profile of the two overlapping tops. Available in wood or stoneware, this structural element outlines the surfaces like a refined “circuit,” deliberately shifting the supports away from their conventional positions. This design choice creates a strong visual identity while introducing an unexpected and contemporary character.

Track is a square coffee table composed of two superimposed tops, offered in the full range of Dallagnese wood finishes or in elegant stoneware. The metal frame follows the entire perimeter, ensuring structural coherence and visual continuity, while the supports are concentrated in two opposing points that enhance both stability and lightness. Thanks to its compact dimensions, Track is ideal as a functional side table, providing a practical surface in any corner of the living room. Subtle yet expressive, it is a refined accent piece designed to complement contemporary interiors with originality and balance.
