Description

The Connor Sofa with built in marble table expands the Connor concept in the new Borzalino Collection, blending lounge comfort with the presence of a functional centerpiece. This version is conceived as a landscape for living, where seating, surfaces, and materials interact in a balanced composition. The marble table is seamlessly integrated into the sofa's layout, creating a natural point for display or daily use and turning the sofa into a complete living platform.

The design emphasizes horizontality and lightness, with volumes that feel generous yet controlled. Cushions are elevated on solid wood slides and arranged over a leather or fabric-covered base that visually anchors the composition. The internal structure in tubular metal ensures durability. Backrests and armrests use expanded polyurethane foam in approximate densities of 2.5 and 2.2 lb/ft³, finished with channeled down feather quilting that maintains an even distribution of filling and a soft touch. Seat cushions combine multi-density foams of about 2.4 and 1.9 lb/ft³ with the same channeled feather quilting to deliver deep, enveloping comfort. A refined embroidery on the back cushion adds a discreet decorative identity. Legs and slides are crafted in solid oak in multiple finishes or in canaletto walnut. The built in marble table, offered in selected marble options, introduces a cool mineral contrast to the warmth of wood, leather, and textile. The result is a modular sofa that feels architectural, versatile, and distinctly luxurious. Made in Italy.
