Design: Marco Pozzoli

Description

Sculptural in form and effortlessly versatile, this extendable dining table brings a distinctive sense of warmth and contemporary sophistication to the dining space. Its rounded silhouette and substantial wooden construction create a harmonious balance between organic character and refined design, while the beautifully detailed tabletop adds depth and visual interest to its elegant presence.

Sunbeam -or “Raggio di Sole” in Italian-, is a distinctive material process developed by Ozzio Italia that transforms the tabletop into a dynamic design feature. Crafted through a precise radial composition of wooden segments, the grain extends outward from a central point, creating a striking geometric pattern that enhances the natural character and visual depth of the wood. As light and perspective change, the surface reveals different reflections and nuances, giving the table an ever-changing appearance.
