Design: Marco Pozzoli

Description

Defined by a bold architectural silhouette, this extendable dining table brings refined contemporary character to sophisticated interiors. Its sculptural base and carefully crafted wood surface create a harmonious balance between strong geometric lines and natural elegance, making it a distinctive expression of contemporary furniture and Italian design.

Sunbeam -or "Raggio di Sole" in Italian-, is a distinctive material process developed by Ozzio Italia that transforms the tabletop into a dynamic design feature. Crafted through a precise radial composition of wooden segments, the grain extends outward from a central point, creating a striking geometric pattern that enhances the natural character and visual depth of the wood. As light and perspective change, the surface reveals different reflections and nuances, giving the table an ever-changing appearance.
